Jackals vs Can-Am League Opponents

Brockton Rox

All-Time Series: New Jersey leads 48-43 (2002-present)

2008 Series: Brockton won 9-5

2009 Series: New Jersey leads 4-3

2008 Notes: Four of 14 games went extra innings. The Rox swept the Jackals in their season-ending four-game series at Campanelli Stadium.

American Defenders of New Hampshire (formerly the Nashua Pride)

All-Time Series: New Jersey leads 21-14 (2007-present)

2008 Series: Nashua won 7-6

2009 Series: Jackals lead 9-4

Les Capitales de Québec

All-Time Series: Quebec leads 73-51 (1999-present)

2008 Series: Quebec won 11-2

2009 Series: Jackals lead 6-3

2008 Notes: The Jackals mounted a pair of dramatic two-out last-inning rallies against Quebec On 5/29 at Le Stade de Québec, the Jackals trailed 5-1 with one runner aboard and two outs before rallying for seven unanswered runs off reliever Jose Guanchez to win 8-1. On 7/24 at Yogi Berra Stadium, the Jackals trailed Quebec 8-0 with the bases empty and two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning before stringing together five straight hits, followed by two Quebec errors to score six runs off Capitales closer Jason Schutt before New Jersey eventually fell short 8-6... The Jackals shortest nine-inning game of the season (1:48) came on 7/30 at Quebec... The Capitales played a large role in New Jersey's second-half collapse, handing the Jackals six losses during the team's season-long nine-game losing streak. That losing streak (7/24 to 7/31) dropped New Jersey from 29-26 to 29-35.

Sussex Skyhawks

All-Time Series: New Jersey leads 27-19 (2006-present)

2008 Series: Sussex won 7-6

2009 Series: Jackals lead 4-2

2008 Notes: Swept Quebec in best-of-five Can-Am League Championship Series to win first title. The Skyhawks championship also marked the first title at Skylands Park since the 1994 New Jersey Cardinals won the New York-Penn League title in their inaugural season.

2009 Notes: New Jersey defeated Sussex in both preseason meetings.

Worcester Tornadoes

All-Time Series: New Jersey leads 34-31 (2005-present)

2008 Series: Jackals won 10-4

2009 Series: Series tied 7-7

2008 Notes: In 6/24 doubleheader at Hanover Insurance Park, New Jersey scored five runs in the first inning in each game en route to a doubleheader sweep. In the fourth and final game of the series on 6/26, the Jackals outlasted the Tornadoes 5-4 in the longest contest in Can-Am League history – a 20-inning, 6-hour and 6-minute marathon – to earn the series sweep. In the win, New Jersey pitchers set a franchise record by striking out 21 batters (the previous record of 18 was set on 8/4/98 against the Massachusetts Mad Dogs). However, New Jersey also set a league record by stranding 18 runners on base. Offensively, Marcus Sanders tied a league record with five hits despite not collecting his first base knock until his fourth at bat of the game in the seventh inning. Sanders proved to be the hero, lifting his first home run of the season in the top of the 20th. Just four days later, the Jackals set several team and league offensive records in a 21-10 win on 6/30 at Yogi Berra Stadium. New Jersey posted an eleven-run, 12-hit fourth inning (12 hits broke the previous team record of eight in an inning. Eleven runs in the frame tied Jackals team record and surpassed the previous league record of ten). In the contest, Jackals also set new league records with 21 runs (the previous record was 20) and 28 hits (previous record was 24).

2009 Notes: The Jackals won both games of the rain-shortened first series of the season between the two squads, which the Tornadoes entered in first place. The Jackals remained in first for the rest of the first half... The Tornadoes ended New Jersey's league-record 14-game winning streak with a 3-1 victory in game two of a doubleheader on 6/25 at Yogi Berra Stadium... The Jackals clinched the first-half title with an 11-1 win on 7/17 at Hanover Insurance Park.
